In Brazil - Festa Junina is celebrated throughout the whole of Brazil for the entire month of June as a celebration of Saint John the Baptist, which gives it the other name of Festa de Sao João. Carnival - Undoubtedly the largest festival in Brazil, carnival is known worldwide for its non-stop one week of partying. The weeks leading up to the official carnival are peppered with random street parades and parties known as blocos, and if that wasn't enough, the weeks after tend to have some post-carnival parties to ease off the end of carnival blues.

Almost every village in Portugal has a festival (festa) o a traditional pilgrimage (romaria) to celebrate the local Saint's day or regional harvest. Many of Portugal's public holidays are centred on the Christian calendar.
